A reader of the INTELLIGENCER has requested us to publish Haucock's order

then he was in command of the Fifth Military District, comprising the States of Louisiana and Texas. It is known as We subjoin the order, "Order No. 40." HEADQUARTERS FIFTH MIL. DIST., NEW OBLEANS, LA., Nov. 29, 1867.

neral Order No. 40.

General Order No. 40.

First—In accordance with General Order No. 81, headquariers of the army, Adjutant General's office, Washington, D. G., August 27, 1807, Major General W. S. Hancock hereby assumes command of the Fifth Military District, and of the department composed of the States of Louisiana and Texas.

Second—The General commanding is gratified to learn that peace and quiet reign in this department. It will be his purpose to preserve this condition of things. As a means to this great end he regards the maintenance of the civil authorities in the faithful execution of the laws as the most efficient under existing circumstances. In war it is indispensable to repel force by force, and overthrow and destroy opposition to lawful authority. But when insurrectionary them members of the Klam.

Second—The General commanding is mony of General Reynolds, who was in the department at the time, in command of Texas—the same General Reynolds referred to above in Hancock's letter to Governor Pease—and he describes the state of affairs as follows:

"The civil law east of Trinity river is almost a dead letter. In some of the counties the civil effices are all or a portion of them members of the Klam.

Second—The General Reynolds, who was in the department at the time, in command of Texas—the same General Reynolds referred to above in Hancock's letter to Governor Pease—and he describes the state of affairs as follows:

"The civil law east of Trinity river is almost a dead letter. In some of the counties then civil efficiency of the Klam.

"The civil law east of Trinity river is almost a dead letter. In some of the counties the civil efficiency of them members of the Klam.

"The civil law east of Trinity river is almost a dead letter. In some of the civil them members of the Klam.

"The civil law east of Trinity river is almost a dead letter. In some of the civil demonstration of the civil administration in the pr their duties, the military power shound cease to lead, and the civil administration resume its natural and rightful dominion. Solemnly impressed with these views, the General announces that the great principles of American liberty are still the lawful inheritance of this people, and ever should be. The right of trial by jury, the heheas corpus, the liberty of the press, the freedom of speech, the natural rights of persons and the rights of property must be preserved. Free institutions, while they are essential to the properging of the people, always furnish the strongest inducements to peace and order. Crimes and offences committed in this district must be referred to the consideration and judgment of the regular civil tribunals, and those tribunals will be supported in their lawful jurisdiction. While the General thus indicates his purposes to respect the liberties of the people, he wishes all to understand that armed insurrection or forcible resistance to the law will be instantly suppressed by arms.

Maj. Gen. W. S. HANCOCK. It is to be borne in mind in reading this order that Andy Johnson was then President of the United States; that he was doing all that he could to oppose and break down the Reconstruction policy of Congress, and that to this end he removed Phil Sheridan from the command of the department and put Gen. Hancock in his place, because he believed that the latter would carry out his policy of antagonism to the Reconstruction laws of Congress. Hancock was then as now a Democrat, and then as now an aspirant for the Presidency, and was voted for as such in the National Democratic Convention that met in New

General Garfield, in one of his masterly speeches, delivered January 17, 1868, made a most remarkable allusion to him, dashes wildly by and over one of the divining the motive which governed his course in those States, namely: setting his sails for the Democratic nomination for the Presidency! This rather prophetic state- the head of Eagle river. This lake would ment of General Garfield has absolutely surely temptany angler, but it contains no been carried out, as the reader can see by fish reading the following extract. It will be by ne in mind that it was delivered twelve years ago:

"Mr. Speaker, I will not repeat the long catalogue of obstructions which he has thrown in the way by virtue of the power conterred upon him (Johnson) in the reconstruction law of 1867, but I will allow to one example where he has found in a Major-General of the army a facile instrument with which more effectually to obstruct the work of reconstruction. This case is all the more painful because an otherwise meritorious officer, who bears honorable scars, earned in battle for the Union, has been made a party to the political madness which has so long marked the conduct of the President. This General was sent into the district of Louisiana and Texas with a law of Congress in his hand, a law that commands him to see that justice is administered among the people of that country, and that no pretense of civil authority shall deter him from performing his duty, and yet we find that officer giving lectures in the form of proclamations and orders on what ought to be the relation between the civil and military departments of the Government. We seen him issuing a general order in which he declares that the civil ahould not give way before the military. We hear him declaring that he finds nothing in the laws of Louisiana and Texas to warrant his interference in the civil administration of those States. It is not for him to search the defunct laws of Louisiana and Texas for a guide to his conduct. It is for him to obey the laws, which he was sent there to execute. It is for him to add in building up civil governments, rather than preparing himself to be the Presidental candidate of the party which gave him no sympathy when he went well, until we reached the easter was gallantly fighting the battles of the slope of the range, and on crossing which gave him no sympathy when he was gallantly fighting the battles of the country.

Gen. Garfield had reference in the above speech to various orders, in addition to order No. 40, that General Hancock had issued as Commander of the Fifth Military. Department. One of these orders was as follows:

To Governor Pease, of Texas: Brevet Maj. Gen. J. J. Raynolds, commanding district of Texas, in a communication dated Austin, Texas, November 19, 1867, requests that a military commission may be ordered "for the trial of one G. W. Wall."

It is true that the third section of "An act to provide for the more efficient government of the Rebel States" makes it the duty of commanders of military districts "to punish, or cause to be punished, all disturbers of the public peace and criminals;" but the same power, from its very nature, should be exercised for the trial of offenders against the laws of the State only in the extraordinary event that the local civil tribunals are unwilling or unable to enforce the laws against crimes. At this time the country is in a state of profound peace. The state government of Texas, organized in subordination to the authority of the Government of the United States, is in the full exercise of all its States, is in the full exercise of all its law of the country is in a state of profound peace. The state government of the United States, is in the full exercise of all its law of the state and the states. It is not be leaded to the camp. Col. Mackey, of California, is interested in the Ten Mile district to the extent of 1500,000. Sheep Mountain has the Robinson consolidated—stocked for ten mile on the full exercise of all its law of the camp. On the same power is the state of the camp. The state government of the States, is in the full exercise of all its law of the state of the camp. One should be called the state of the camp. The same power is the state of the camp of the same power is the state of the camp of the same power is the same power is the same power is the same power is the same p ed "for the trial of one G. W. Wall."

It is true that the third section of "An act to provide for the more efficient government of the Rebel States" makes it the duty of commanders of military districts "to punish, or cause to be punished, all disturbers of the public peace and criminals;" but the same power, from its very nature, should be exercised for the trial of offenders against the laws of the State only in the extraordinary event that the local civil tribunals are unwilling or unable to enforce the laws against crimes. At this time the country is in a state of Texas, organized in subordination to the authority of the Government of the United States, is in the full exercise of all its proper powers. Under such circumstances there is no good ground for the exercise of the extraordinary power vested in the commander to organize a military commission for the trial of the persons Laned.

WINFIELD S. HANCOCK.

WINFIELD S. HANCOCK. A correspondent of the New York Tri se reviews the history of Handock's administration at the South under John on. We quote what he says, as follows:

"It was the fortune of the writer to be "It was the fortune of the writer to be in Texas for several years immediately after the suppression of the Rebellion, and he enjoyed the best of opportunities for observing the effect of General Hancock's order by which military interference was forbidden in the administration of civil affairs. Immediately on the promulgation of this order the rebels were filled with joy and many Government officers affairs. Immediately on the promitization of this order the rebels were filled with joy, and many Government officers and Union men and great numbers of negroes were killed, and their murderers were not punished. The civil statutes were thus enacted by the rebel Legislature called into existence by President Johnson in 1866, and colored men were denied admittance to the jury box, and were speedily reduced to a state of the most abject submission to their former masters, while Union men and Republicans were subjected to countless insults and outrages, for which they could find no redress. In short, within two years from the date when General Hancock and his gallant associates had suppressed armed for treason on the field of battle, he delivered over Texas and Louisiana to the traitors if he had defeated in battle, and turned a deaf car to the cries for protection which deaf ear to the cries for protection which arose from those who suffered, and because arose from those who suffered, and because they were loyal to the government he represented. Upon the head of General Hancock must forever rest the responsibility for a vast number of outrages and murders committed because of his famous order and conduct consistent therewith. If the traitors who sought to 'shoot the Nation to death' found General Hancock such a pliant tool in 1867, can they not well afford to select him as an instrument to do their bidding in 1880?"

This statement of the Tribune's corres-

This statement of the Tribune's corres pondent is amply confirmed by the testistate of affairs as follows:

"The civil law east of Trinity river is almost a dead letter. In some of the counties the civil officers are all or a portion of them members of the Klam. " They full the Klams attend in large bodies the political meetings under anspices of the Democratic Clubs. " In several decounties men have been indicated by name from the speaker's stand as those selected for murder. " " The murder of negroes is so common as to render it impossible to keep an accurate account of them! " " Free speech and free press, as the terms are generally undermem: Prees, as the terms are generally under-stood, have nerve existed in Texas. * * *
To restore measurable peace and quiet in Texas will require that troops be stationed at many county seats."

This is the testimony of a General who was not seeking a nomination for the Presidency at the hands of the Democratic party. Hence he saw things as they really existed, and expressed himself accordingly "Order No. 40" sounds very nice on pa light of history in order to understand it properly.
